ABOUT US

The California Association of Alcohol and Drug Program Executives (CAADPE) is the statewide voice for substance use disorder (SUD) treatment providers across California. Since 1989, we've united prevention, intervention, treatment, and recovery programs under one powerful banner—advocating for policies that expand access, reduce stigma, and improve outcomes. With over 400 service sites represented in our membership, CAADPE is at the center of shaping California's behavioral health landscape.

Sponsoring CAADPE's Annual In-Person Meeting on October 29th means joining a movement to ensure every Californian has access to timely, high-quality SUD care. From influencing state legislation to providing technical assistance for frontline providers, we are building a more equitable, integrated system of care. Your support helps us continue this vital work—connecting policy with practice, and providers with the tools they need to change lives.
